Knowledge and skills

Graduates have high-level skills in visual communication using traditional and new media, and can work both independently and in a team. They understand how to research and develop creative ideas and can manage their time in completing work.

Career opportunities

Graphic designers may work in-house, with agencies and consultancies or freelance. Related careers include art direction in advertising, illustration, animation, and production design for film, theatre or television. They may also work in multimedia producing websites, games and DVDs. This is a competitive career area and it is important to take advantage of opportunities to gain relevant experience and make network contacts.
