Project description

Title - The Student Parent Podcast

Logline - The podcast for people who are students, have been student or are going to be students while also being parents

Description - This Podcast is hosted by Adam and Mel Woolley, a husband and wife team who have both been students while being parents to their 3 young children. It has come with its challenges and they both want to share how they have achieved the end goal of getting their degrees so that other parents who want to go to university or back to studying can take inspiration.
