Project information

Project title: When Worlds Collide
Logline: Nothings is as it's seems
Project description:

„When Worlds Collide“ is a photo series that deals heavily with what is considered typically British. What do tourists see as British? What is perhaps different from their hometown? With that question in mind, I set out to take the pictures.

When I was walking in Southampton or in London, I was looking for what seemed British to me and to other tourists. The main feature that catches the eye should be Britishness interacting with the architecture. Especially through my project, I want to address students and also people who look at England through the tourist gaze. In addition, you should have fun discovering new places and buildings that are not obvious at first glance.
